Britishers Prefer Trenches to Cost of Living at Home

Income Taxes Placed at an All-Time High

GOOD IS WAY UP

War Resulted When English Tired of "Crises"

Hundreds of thousands of words have been written about the fighting forces in the European war, but the AP Feature Service asked correspondents in Great Britain, France, and Germany just how the war was hitting Mr. Average Man.

By DWIGHT PITKIN

AP Feature Service

LONDON — Many of the stay-at-homes in this war would just as soon in the front line trenches.

That with paying all-time high income taxes, trying to make ends meet on a salary of $10, and a general 10 per cent jump in the cost of living people on the British home front find that war, today's style, does not call for brass bands and whoopee. In 1914, the Tommy's attitude was, "The Kaiser is getting a bit thick, it's time to do something about him." Today's attitude towards Hitler is much the same, but Tommy is much more sophisticated. Flag-waving and singing songs on lapsels of "slackers" are out.

Bank-Blank Business

The man-in-the-street generally is served, rather shy, far from warlike in his talk. So far, the Germans are still Germans; they're never referred to as in "Hil." There is a pessimistic feeling when news comes about the burials for German aviators brought down in raids on the Firth of Forth.

When British statesmen talk about the war against "Hitlerism" it's no generally even to the sophisticated Englishman. He claims he has a real grudge against Hitler.

Even for a year before the outbreak of actual warfare, he asks, was not the German chancellor upsetting his life and making him jittery by springing "crises" on his cherished week-ends?

Picture the average Englishman in peacetime. He had a cozy home with a flower garden. If he had the income, all the luxuries of the world were at his command. When he awoke in the morning the maid brought him a piping hot cup of tea. Then he breakfasted on bacon and eggs, kippers and toast. He rode to work in a comfortable, fast train. He lunched on roast beef and Yorkshire pudding with chow chow and without thought of anything on the pie-put, he called it. Between 4 and 5 o'clock he listened to the radio and ate cakes. And then about 9 p. m. he had supper at home with the family, with time beforehand to work in the garden.

A General Mess
Now his wife and children have been sent to the country to live among strangers. He has to brew his own breakfast tea, fry his own bacon and eggs. Lately there has been no bacon from Denmark. For economy, the maid has had to go. The kitchen sink is piled with dishes. The house is a general mess.

He is in a surly mood by the time he starts for work. All trains are packed at rush hours; service has been curtailed to clear lines for movement of vital supplies.

His office or factory looks like a place near the front line trenches. Doors and windows are piled with sandbags. The lighting is bad. No longer has he a full range of the world's foods for lunch.

He can't get his favorite brand of tea in the evening; the government has pooled all brands. To expert tea-drinkers like the English the result is horrible.

To get such staples as meat, sugar and butter his wife must now present ration cards, or start with a blank. She is limited to 12 ounces of sugar a week, 4 ounces of bacon, and 4 ounces of butter.

At the end of the week she has a Social Life Blacked Out.

For the first time in his life, he is not a member of a club. He has no one to talk to about his problems.

He is not a member of a club. He has no one to talk to about his problems.

At Least It Sounds Like a Good Story

HOUSTON, Texas — (AP) — County Commissioner William Tautenhahn, who calls himself "just a good old country boy," had a tiny live squirrel resting comfortably in his coat pocket at the end of his watch chain.

Commissioner Tautenhahn was comfortable, too, until a delegation of citizens dropped in to discuss the condition of roads in their district.

At each complaint from the delegation, he squirmed noticeably, but later he insisted his discomfort was attributable to the squirrel's effort to eat its way through his pockets, rather than to the delegation's efforts to put the bee on his budget.

House Approves Anti-Lynch Bill

Southern Filibuster Set to Kill It in Senate

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The house approved one of its perennial election-year favorites, the anti-lynching bill, late Wednesday and sent it to the senate where an unyielding southern filibuster was set to kill it.

The vote of 252 to 132 followed a discussion in which Representative Rankin (D-Miss.) asserted that the measure was "nothing but the renewal of a vicious attack on the white people of the southern states," coming not from the Republicans, he said, but from the Democrats.

All southern efforts to amend the measure were crushed, under a massive voting combination of the North and West. The same fate met an effort by Representative Hoffman (R-Mich.), inveterate foe of the CIO, to attach provisions intended to restrict picketing.

The single change accepted was offered by the author of the measure, Representative Gavanagh (D-N. Y.), who represents the district of which New York City's teeming negro section, Harlem, is a part. He proposed the elimination of language making the bill inapplicable to any violence resulting from a labor disturbance.

Gavanagh explained that the provision was unnecessary because the bill could not possibly be interpreted as applying to labor situations.

The bill—denounced by southerners as impractical, unenforceable and unconstitutional and upheld by its supporters in the antipathies of those who seek to eliminate lynchings by imposing penalties on peace officers reluctant in protecting their constituents from lynch-mobs and by making the municipalities and counties liable for damages.

Demo Convention May Be Held In July

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Reports circulated in the senate Thursday that the Democratic National committee had set the party's national convention date for mid-July in a politically strategic effort to force the republican convention into early August.

100 Red Officers Reported Recalled to Court Martial

Russian Supply Department Being Investigated

FRENCH MOVE UP

Break German Line, But Are Thrown Back

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — (AP) — Reports were received here Thursday that more than 100 Soviet Russian officers had been called back from the Finnish front, some of them to face trial before special courts.

Reports which reached Norwegian and Finnish quarters from numerous sources said the officers would be tried before courts consisting of people's commissars.

The Russian commissariat dealing with supplies was reported especially to be under a penetrating inquiry, which, it was said, had already led to executions.

French Break Nazi Line

BERLIN, Germany — (AP) — A French company in a surprise attack was reported by the German official news agency Thursday to have succeeded in breaking the German line on Kreuzberg, east of Forbach, only to be driven back later by a Nazi counter-attack.

DNB said the French left their dead and wounded when they were driven back by local German outposts after a short-lived triumph.

Germans Over England

LONDON, Eng. — (AP) — German warplanes ranged from Scotland to the southeast coast Thursday in the third day of stepped-up aerial warfare.

No bombs were dropped on land, and no alarms were sounded, in contrast to heavy Nazi attacks on ships off the coast Tuesday.

The only aerial victim was a small coastal vessel set on fire by a bomber.

There were two additional marine losses, however, as a ship believed to be Italian struck a mine off the east coast. An unidentified vessel sank after a collision off the west coast.

To Halt Buying

BERLIN — (AP) — Germans were warned that they must voluntarily reduce purchases of unrationed articles or force would be used to compel them to spend less of their income. The warning was issued by Das Schwarze Korps, organ of the Hitler Elite Guards which said one plan under consideration is that of paying wages partly in certificates, which would not come due for several years.

Authorities have been seeking to halt what is termed a wave of excessive buying of unrationed articles so that industries producing these articles may work for direct war purposes. By reducing the amount of money people have to spend, it is reasoned, the government would stop such buying and thus make available more cash to pay for the war.

Das Schwarze Korps said the Nazi state was seeking to reduce income in the same measure as it is considered necessary to reduce purchasing power. It was made clear force would be used if discipline failed.

Referring to Nazi expenditures for armaments and other purposes to increase German world prestige, the paper said: "Reduction of purchasing power is the entrance price each individual is paying for Germany's entrance into the world constellation of powers."

Inflation Feared

The rush to buy anything not rationed is attributed partly to a psychological reaction, to shortage fears and to fears of inflation caused by issuance of additional paper bills and small coins in aluminum. One woman worker who spent her savings for unnecessary articles said "the appearance of the aluminum coins was a signal for me."

Authorities are considering abolishing the bread ration cards. Instead of consumption declining under rationing it has increased, for many people who before the war did not eat bread began to eat it as soon as cards were needed to buy it.

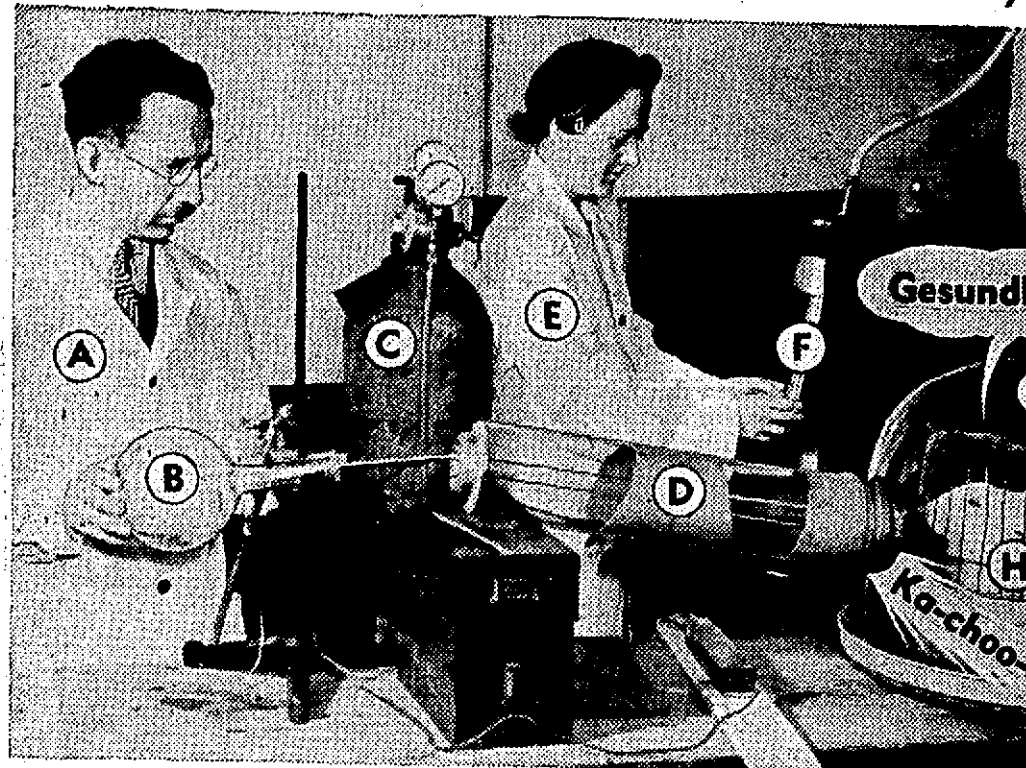

Economies Minister Funk, president of the Reichsbank, gave the first of three hints of an impending government drive to force saving in a speech made at Salzburg January 2. He urged Germans to start savings accounts instead of buying goods not immediately needed.

"Some people wildly buy anything and everything, even bathtub," he said. "Bathtubs can neither be eaten nor put on like clothes. Neither the tax collector nor the doctor will take bathtubs in payment."

3 Appearances of Stage Show Here

"Water Follies" to Be Presented at Saenger Friday

"Raynell's Water Follies" coming to Hope for one day, Friday is the only aquatic show on tour in America today.

The water portion of the show is presented by 15 beautiful girls in a 6000 gallon portable swimming pool. Raynell, the lovely blonde imperious, and producer of this unusual show, is confronted with a major problem: so far as costumes for her water spectacle were concerned.

It was necessary for Raynell to find, or invent, a fabric from which the costumes could be made, as all costumes in this gigantic water production had to be water proof, flashy, and durable.

Over 80 separate costumes are necessary for each performance, and it was only after many days spent in chemical laboratories, and finally a trip to Akron, Ohio, home of the rubber industry, was she able to find the material that she now uses exclusively.

The Saenger theater is proud to be able to bring to Hope the greatest water production on tour, Manager Young said.

In addition to the water portion of the show, "Water Follies" presents seven big acts of vaudeville, featuring the Mandell Bros., former stars of George White's Scandals, Green with Follies, and Metro Goldwyn Mayer's short subjects.

The new officers will hold their first meeting in the near future to make plans and outline programs for the 1940 county fair.

Half of the amount raised locally will go to national headquarters and the other half will be kept at home to be used to aid infantile paralysis victims.

10 Percent Hike On Income Taxes Is New Proposal

President Would Like the Leaders to "Push It"

NATIONAL DEFENSE

Informal Measure Would Apply to '39 and '40 Taxes

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt looks with favor on a 10 percent "super-tax" on income tax to pay emergency national defense costs, administration officials said, Thursday, but he wants congressional leaders to take the initiative in framing the proposal.

The "super-tax," although still an informal idea, might be applied retroactively to 1939 income as well as to 1940 income.

The tax-payer would compute his levy in the usual way, then add 10 per cent to the total.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Ascribing "flagrant and unscrupulous suppression and misuse of material facts" to critics of the reciprocal trade program, Secretary Hull declared Thursday that he expanded markets for the American farm and manufactured products.

He argued that the "honest ways and means committee to renew the expiring trade agreements act in order to aid in world-wide economic readjustment after the European war."

"The choice is before us," Hull declared, "as to whether we shall lead the way toward despair and ruin for ourselves and for others, or toward the heights of economic progress and sustained prosperity and enduring peace for our nation and for the world."

High Blood Pressure Never Beneficial and May Lead to Serious Disorders

In a recent review of the diseases which affect the blood vessels, Dr. E. V. Allen pointed out that high blood pressure is a serious disease, accounting for twice as many deaths as cancer in the United States. He believes it is an error to consider high blood pressure merely a symptom and not a disease.

What difference does it make, he asks, whether hypertension is a symptom or a disease, since it kills people who would live if they did not have high blood pressure? He feels that there is need for reduction of blood pressure as an important procedure in saving life.

Some people are convinced that high blood pressure is necessary in some people to permit their kidneys to function properly. Dr. Allen's investigations do not support this belief. In fact, when the blood pressure is reduced by surgical operation, as is done in some cases, the function of both the heart and of the kidneys is improved.

It is reported that reduction of blood pressure usually makes these patients feel better by relieving headache, dizziness, pain in the thorax, nervousness and similar symptoms. Shortness of breath and fatigue seem to disappear when blood pressure is lowered following the operation.

High blood pressure occurs because the smallest blood vessels offer increased resistance to the flow of blood through them.

Rest, use of sedatives and similar treatment will reduce the blood pressure to normal, after which resistance to the flow of blood also is reduced.

Recently, medical science has been experimenting with a variety of drug remedies, which have the effect of lowering the blood pressure. Such remedies, when properly administered by a physician, can bring about this result in many cases.

However, the remedies must be taken regularly under medical control for the reason that overdoes are harmful and underdoes fail to yield the proper result. The proper dosage varies in each case.

French Fashions to U. S. by Plane

Emphasis, Due to War Conditions, Is on Practicality

By ADELAIDE KERR AP Fashion Editor

Paris designers are putting up a sturdy fight on the wartime fashion front to keep one of France's leading industries alive.

Most of the largest dressmaking houses have opened their doors again after brief September closings due to the war, and are preparing spring collections for January display. To overcome the difficulties of travel and shipping which have resulted from the war, midseason models have been brought to New York by clipper to be shown to buyers here. A few designers have made flying trips to combat the American market, while others work through representatives in New York.

New spring clothes taking shape in Paris are going to put more emphasis on practicality and less on frivolity, say representatives of leading designers. The American woman's tastes and needs in clothes will be considered carefully. Dress and jacket costume suits of very lightweight wools are expected to appear.

The fashion world is looking for a "new break" in hats from Schiaparelli. (Shower hats cut and hair to fit them) may be part of the Paris spring mode, since hats must accommodate long hair necessitating hairpins and mobilization has caused a shortage of hairdressers.

Designers are working under stringent wartime handicaps in preparing the collections. The gaudy and accented for which Paris is famous are less plentiful than they were, a number of tailors have been mobilized and workrooms are chafing for lack of coal. Sometimes, bundled in sweaters, seamstresses work by flashlight.

A number of American buyers who missed the midseason collections, say they have made passport arrangements and expect to be in Paris in January to view the spring shows. They plan to go by clipper or by one of the ships of the United States Line, which has announced the beginning of bi-monthly sailings to Italian ports at the first of the year.

One of the most interesting phases of Paris' battle to maintain her place on the international fashion front is the sending of several groups of clothes to New York for display to American buyers. One was Brayer's collection of youthful, wearable clothes, cut on a slim, straight, short-skirted silhouette. Its only wartime influence was found in occasional military touches.

Another was a collection of twenty-four lace necks, by as many different Paris designers, which included clothes to wear from breakfast to supper. Among them were smart shirtwaist frocks and dress-and-jacket costume suits, light navy, almost green and beige, worn with hats and gloves of contrasting hue. There were also a number of white lace evening frocks. Both collections were presented in New York buyers and the press.

CLUB NOTES

Spring Hill L-H Spring Hill L-H club met January 4, at 10:45 a. m. at the school building. The meeting was called to order by the president, Warren Butler.

After a song and a general discussion for new year plans, Miss Fletcher took the girls for a demonstration in clothing and Mr. Adams took the boys for a demonstration in painting trees and grape vines.

Miss Fletcher handed out bulletins for first, second, third and advanced year girls in clothing work. She explained the project and ask girls to be prepared for work next month.

4-H girls decided to make slip covers for the library suite of furniture for Spring Hill school. A demonstration in slip cover making will be given by Miss Fletcher in February.

The meeting adjourned at 11:45 a. m. and the club will meet again the first Thursday in February at 10:45 o'clock.

F. D. in Fighting Trim During 1939

President Has Enormous Powers of Endurance

By PRESTON GROVER WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt entered the last year of his second term, maybe his last term in booming health and good spirits. He has his ups and his downs, although the incredible burdens of the presidency would keep an average man mostly down.

The most evident reason for his present booming disposition is that positive position he has taken in foreign affairs. He is far from his best when on the defensive. Probably his all-time "ow" in the Supreme Court during and after the Sacco case fight of 1937.

Likes the Offensive He likes the fighting side, the aggressive side rather than the defensive. Most men do. It is a military axiom that the soldier on the offensive is normally highest in morale. Just now, President Roosevelt is on the offensive on three fronts in foreign affairs. A field in which he is particularly happy in any event.

He is putting real heat on Russia by advancing aid to the Finns. He is widening the "pressure area" around Japan, whose trade treaty with us is about to expire at a time when she most needs this trade.

His "good neighbor" policy just now is moving into a still more American phase directed at driving the European war away from our Atlantic doorway.

Keeps Up With the Budget Several weeks ago a man kept him out of the executive office, but he did not avoid much work. He said not. The foreign situation was moving through important stages. Moreover, he was wrestling with the budget. In connection with the budget his intimate advisers noted his unusual power of "comeback" after strain. Day after day, often until past the midnight hour, he would take up one department's request after another. His budget staff around him, supplemented by representatives of the departments under consideration.

One of them told us that after six hours of late night wrestling with a budget he was virtually strangled. The President also appeared tired when the party broke up after midnight. Next morning, so our informant said, he felt beaten and whipped himself, but the President was apparently fresh as an apple, although he had been going on with such a schedule for weeks.

Hospitals Proposed During such periods of high spirits, he gives his help to a rollicking enthusiasm for new and exciting moves. He can blow a comparatively minor story into front page proportions.

Within the past few days he front-paged a hospital story that was mere peanuts so far as financial outlay was concerned, although the hospital idea is always a big one in any man's country. He didn't miss his usual sense of timing by putting it out almost on Christmas eve, when charity sentiments are at their peak.

He spoke of putting federal money into hospitals into areas which now do not have hospital services, many of them in the South. For such a hospital as he had in mind, $150,000 would suffice, he said. A hundred such hospitals would cost only $15,000,000. A dozen cruises are now on the ways, each costing that much or more.

The man who succeeds him, in one year or five years from now, will have to eat plenty of vitamins to keep up the pace.

'Scandals' Drops John L. Lewis Skit

Here is scene deleted from "George White's Scandals" in Chicago on demand of James Petrella, A. F. of L. musicians' union head. It shows Eugene and Willie Howard impersonating John L. Lewis and a C. I. O. organizer. Comics Olsen and Johnson threatened to put a Petrella skit in their "Hellsboppin," which opens in Chicago soon, if they had to take Lewis out.

L. G. Ligatti, Catholic priest and patron of the project, has revealed. The settlement entered its fifty year of occupancy recently. Purchase of the land and construction of the homes were financed by $200,000 of Federal money.

Families earning less than $1,000 a year are buying the places under long-term contracts. Surrounding area is land of five acres or less. Most of the families formerly lived on coal mining camps.

The government is a tremendous beneficiary of the project, the munsignor said. "Besides the gains in social values, the government is getting its investment back."

Added to the project landscape last fall was a community house. The messignor said the settlers also have increased the efficiency of their co-operative unit through purchase of a tractor and through group purchasing of farming equipment.

Although safety plate glass may break under severe impact, the plaster binder holds the fragments firmly together.

Lady of Justice Goes Popular Front

PIKEVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—A mother and step-father charged with contributing to the delinquency of their 12-year-old daughter were brought before County Judge J. M. Pursfull. The girl told the court she had been reared by her maternal grandparents and preferred to live with them. After hearing testimony, Judge Pursfull asked spectators in the courtroom to show by raised hands which side of the case they favored. The spectators voted to return the child to her grandparents. This the judge did.

WE THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT

You've been making faces in the mirror again. Your job seems dull and it has been longer than you like to think since you've had any kind of promotion.

There are a few assorted men in your life, but not one that is capable of making you think before a date that there is not a single dress in your closet quite right for the occasion.

Lately you've found that you have not much to talk about—even over lunch with a good friend.

Lady, your case isn't serious. You are just in the mid-winter dumps, right where most of your friends are. But the next few months will seem endless unless you decide to mix out of it and have some fun.

Give a party. An extravagant party. Or buy a hat. A goofy hat.

Or make some friendly gestures toward people you have never put yourself out for.

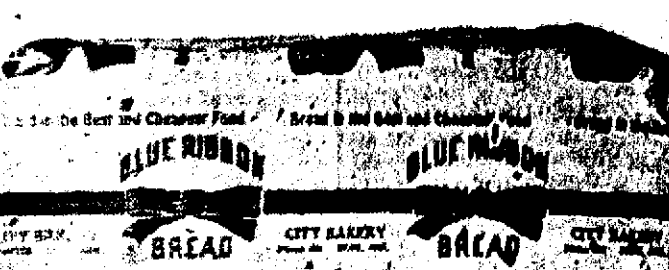

That won't put you on top of the world, but it will be the first step out of the doldrums.

Take Sack. Then you can do something constructive. Settle down and find out what is the trouble with your job—whether it is the job or you.

After that or maybe before, you can stop making faces in the mirror long enough to see just what a wrong with the looks of the girl who has quite making faces. Probably nothing you can't do something about. Then about those nice, but oh so dull, men. Stop wasting your time on them and get busy finding a more attractive enough to make you hate everything you have to wear. Getting into the doldrums was just you've got to exert some effort to get out. China's grand canal, 7000 miles long, is the longest in the world. Litan police force of London.
